Contents

Introduction xi
  W. E. Butler and V. G. Tunkin

Recollections of My Father, Grigorii Ivanovich Tunkin 1
  Vladimir G. Tunkin

Diary of G. I. Tunkin 17
  W. E. Butler and V. G. Tunkin

Coexistence and International Law

Introduction 141

I. Creation of General International Law Norms
  1. International Treaty 143
  2. Custom 143
  3. Treaty and Custom in General International Law 152
  4. The Problem of General Principles of Law 153
  5. The Role of "Auxiliary Sources" of International Law 155

II. The Foundation of Contemporary International Law 159
  1. Juridical Nature of Agreement as the Means of Creating Norms of International Law 159
  2. Inadequacy of “Basic Norms” Doctrines 162
  3. Modern Natural Law Doctrines 164
  4. The Economic Structure of Society as a Real Foundation of International Law 167

III. Co-Existence and General International Law 171
  1. The New “Doctrine of Agreement” and Co-Existence 171
  2. Peaceful Co-Existence and General International Law 172
  3. Fundamental Changes in General International Law in the Period of Co-Existence 179

IV. International Law and Peaceful Co-Existence 185
  1. Foreign Policy and International Law 185
  2. State of "Intermediacy" or Peaceful Co-Existence 186
  3. International Law as a Means of Ensuring Peaceful Co-Existence 188
THE LEGAL NATURE OF THE UNITED NATIONS

I. The Basic Laws of the Development of Society and the United Nations
   1. International Organisation as an Element of Superstructure
   2. Two Opposing Social Systems and the United Nations
   3. Sovereign States and the United Nations
   5. The Mechanism of Influence of the Basic Laws on International Organisation

II. The Charter as the Legal Basis of United Nations Activities
    1. The Charter as an International Treaty
    2. The Theory of “Inherent Competence” of International Organisations
    3. The Theory of “Implied Competence” of International Organisations
    4. United Nations Practice and the Charter
    5. The Development of the Charter

III. The Legal Nature of the United Nations and its Structure and Functioning
     1. Member States in the United Nations
     2. Legal Nature of United Nations Decisions
        (a) Resolutions of the General Assembly
        (b) The Principle of Unanimity of the Great Powers in the Security Council
     3. The Legal Nature of the United Nations and the Secretariat

IV. The Legal Nature of the United Nations and the Problem of the UN Military Forces
    1. The Basic Provisions of the Charter
    2. The “Uniting for Peace” Resolution and the Charter
       (a) The Origins
       (b) Was the “Uniting for Peace” Resolution an Interpretation of the Charter?
       (c) Have the “Uniting for Peace” Resolution and the Practice Based Upon it Modified the Charter?
    3. The Problem of Expenses for the Upkeep of Military Forces

V. The Legal Nature of the United Nations and Strengthening the Organisation
   1. The Problem of a World State
   2. Strengthening the World Organisation

William E. Butler and Vladimir G. Tunkin
International Law in the International System

Part 1. General Theory

I. Marxist-Leninist Theory of Society and International Law
1. The General Laws of Societal Development 235
2. The Socio-Economic Formations and Historical Types of International Law 237
3. The Theory of the Co-ordination of the Wills of States 241

II. The Emergence of Contemporary International Law
1. The International Legal Principles of the Great October Socialist Revolution 246
   (a) The Principles of Socialist Internationalism 246
   (b) The Principles of Equality and Self-Determination of Peoples 247
   (c) The Principles of Peaceful Co-Existence 249
2. The Laws of Societal Development of Our Epoch Having Immediate Bearing upon International Law 250
   (a) The Internationalisation of Economic and Other Aspects of Life 250
   (b) The Existence of Sovereign States 251
   (c) Coexistence of States with Diametrically Different Socio-Economic Systems 252
   (d) The Break-up of the Colonial System and the Emergence of New States 252
   (e) The Interaction of the Laws of Societal Development 253
3. The Principal Changes in International Law Since the Great October Socialist Revolution 253
4. Contemporary International Law – A New Historic Type of International Law 259

Part 2. International Law and the International Juridical System

IV. International Juridical System
1. The System Approach to International Law 271
2. The Contemporary International System 272
3. The Notion of International Juridical System 274
4. Recommendations of International Organisations 275
5. International Understandings 282
6. Internal Law of International Organisations 287
V. Some Problems of the Present System of International Law 288
   1. Preliminary Remarks 288
   2. Is There a System of International Law? 289
   3. The Unified System of Contemporary International Law 290
   4. Universalism and Regionalism in the System of International Law 292
   5. Jus Cogens 294
   6. Fundamental Principles of International Law 301
   7. General Principles of Law 305
   8. The Principles of Socialist Internationalism 311

Part 3. The Process of Forming Norms of International Law 315
   VI. The Treaty Process 317
      1. Treaties Between States 317
      2. Treaties with the Participation of International Organisations 322
   VII. The Customary Process 324
   VIII. The Interaction between Treaty and Customary Processes 331
      1. The Predominant Role of the Treaty Process in the Development of International Law 331
      2. The Development of Customary Norms by Treaty Process 334
      3. The Development of Treaty Norms by Customary Process 334
      4. The Extension of the Sphere of Application of Conventional Norms by the Customary Process Mixed Norms 336
   IX. Binding Resolutions of International Organisations 339
   X. Resolutions-Recommendations and the Creation of Norms of International Law 340
      1. Resolutions-Recommendations and the Treaty Process 340
      2. Resolutions-Recommendations and the Customary Process 343
      3. The Problem of Declaratory Resolutions of the United Nations General Assembly 345

Part 4. International Law and International Organisations 349
   XI. International Organisations in the International System 349
      1. Intergovernmental and Non-Govermental International Organisations 349
      2. The Laws of Societal Development and the Nature of International Organisations 349
      3. Multisocial and Monosocial International Organisations 351
      4. The International Organisation as a System 352
      5. International Organisations and International Law 354
   XII. The Principal Legal Characteristics of Contemporary International Organisations 361
      1. The Co-ordination of the Wills of States and International Organisations 361
2. The Creation of International Organisations
3. Constituent Instruments of International Organisations as International Treaties sui generis
4. The Powers of International Organisations
   (a) The Legal Basis of Powers
   (b) The Problem of Implied Powers
5. Decision Making
   (a) The Composition of Decision-Making Organs
   (b) The Process of the Co-ordination of the Will of States
   (c) Voting Systems
6. The Basic and Nature of the International Legal Personality of International Organisations

Politics, Law and Force in the Interstate System

I. The Present Day Interstate System
   1. The State of Nature Theory
   2. The World Society Theories
   3. The Notion of International Community
II. International Politics and the Creation of Norms of International Law
   1. General Theory
   2. International Politics and the Treaty Process
   3. International Politics and the Customary Process
   4. State Practice and the Development of International Law
   5. International Politics, the Resolutions of International Organisations and the Development of International Law
      (a) Legally Binding Resolutions
      (b) Resolutions-Recommendations and the Treaty Process
      (c) Resolutions and the Customary Process
         (1) The Evidence of State Practice?
         (2) The Evidence of opinio juris?
      (d) Declaratory Resolutions of the United Nations General Assembly
III. International Law and Politics
   1. The Normative Influence of International Law
   2. The Norms of International Law
      (a) The Norms of International Law as Embodiment of Agreement Among States
      (b) The Norms of International Law as Abstract Rules
      (c) The Legally Binding Character of Norms
      (d) Jus Cogens and Jus Dispositivum
   3. The Changing International Law in the XXth Century
   4. International Law as a Restraint and Support for Politics
   5. The Stabilizing and Creative Role of International Law
IV. International Law and Force 461
1. The Historical Background 461
2. The United Nations Charter and the Use of Force 463
3. The Political Implications of Articles 2(4) and 51 of the Charter and Legal Controversies 467
5. The Use of Force by the United Nations 479
V. Non-Legal Norms in the Interstate System 483
1. Political Norms 483
2. The Recommendatory Resolutions of the International Organisations 490
3. International Moral Norms 494
VI. Increasing Regulatory Capacity of the Interstate System 498
1. The Notion of the Regulatory Capacity of the Interstate System. Two Models of the Interstate System 498
2. The Balance-of-Power Model of the Interstate System 499
3. The Primacy of the International Law Model 501
4. International Mechanisms of the Functioning of International Law 503
   (a) The International Mechanisms for Settling Disputes 504
   (b) The Mechanisms of International Control 506
   (c) The International Mechanisms of Law Enforcement 510
VII. Some Thoughts about the Future of the Interstate System 512
1. General Remarks 512
2. The Goals 514
3. The Actors and Means 514

Index of Names 519